

Served with fragrant white rice, the buffet includes one serving of the restaurant's signature Fish Head Curry (half portion for 2 to 3 persons, whole for 4 to 7 persons).

Fish Head Curry

This dish is prepared according to a well-guarded recipe from the then-famous Soon Heng Restaurant back in the 1970s, a mixture of Indian, Chinese and Malay influences. Fresh Red Snapper fish head is first steamed and then left to simmer together with an assam, or tamarind-based curry sauce. Cooked together with other ingredients such as tomatoes, ladies fingers, sliced onions and fresh chillies, every bite is a guaranteed burst of flavour.

Kung Pao Chicken

Originating from the Si Chuan province in China, the 'Kung Pao' style of frying became a classic in Singapore. The latest addition to our menu, White Rose Café's rendition combines dried chillies, onion, spring onion and peanut with tender pieces of chicken, producing a dish that is packed with sweet, sour and spicy flavours.

Black Ink Sotong

Another signature at White Rose Café, this dish is highly recommended for seafood lovers. Whole squids are quickly poached and then immersed in fresh squid ink together with onion, garlic and fresh green and red chillies. Enjoy the piquant flavour of the tender squid in smoky black sauce with a fiery kick.

Chicken Masala

Inspired by the traditional Indian classic, our chefs have created a homemade masala spice blend – a combination of cinnamon, cardamom, cloves, fennel seeds and other spices. The blend is then fried together with chicken until every piece is fully-infused with the aroma and flavour of spices.

Complete the dining experience on a sweet note with specially-made local flavoured desserts featuring Chendol, Ice Kachang, Cheng Tng and Chin Chow with Palm Seeds.
